

Koeleria macrantha

June Grass

Prefers dry locations and full or partial sun. A hardy grass for difficult locations. Vertical blue-green foliage forms clumps. Flower heads turn a golden brown as the seeds mature. Can be used in masses in a dry garden, naturalized in large areas, or as an effective cover for slopes.

Suggested Companions: rough blazing star (liatris aspera), butterfly weed (Asclepias tuberosa), old-field goldenrod (Solidago nemoralis), black oak (Quercus velutina), white oak (Quercus alba), eastern redcedar (Juniperus virginiana), sumacs (Rhus sp.)
